

miahallen just finished his first article for the new Sandy Bridge platform, and puts it through its paces on a top end offering from Asus...

"My subject today is the new Asus Maximus IV Extreme, a Republic of Gamers ("ROG") branded model which represents the top-end of the P67 offerings from Asus. As always, they've managed to pack an overwhelming number of technologies and features into this product and it's my goal to give you honest feedback based on my experience."

Read the full article here...

